Having Safeguarding Week 2019

Having Safeguarding Week is our opportunity to raise awareness on how we identify and respond to safeguarding concerns affecting some of Havering's most vulnerable residents. Safeguarding week is when the multi-agency professional network can think about how we work together and what are the important issues that we need to respond to as new priorities arise and our population changes.

Our programme of workshops and learning events is open to all professionals working with adults, children and families and we encourage all to attend regardless of role or level of knowledge. Safeguarding Week gives us the opportunity to learn from one another and adopt a shared understanding of best practice.

Safeguarding Week Annual Conference

Monday 11 November | Salvation Army Romford | 10:00 -16:00

Our annual Safeguarding Week conference will this year focus on Exploitation and will include key forms of exploitative abuse affecting both vulnerable adults and children, including: sexual exploitation; criminal exploitation through mechanisms such as county lines and cuckooing; and personal fraud and scams. The conference will explore these issues from different organisational perspectives and highlight how we can improve outcomes by working collaboratively across services.

Places are available on a first come, first serve basis. To book your place please click here

This Universal Credit workshop will give you advice on how to support our most vulnerable residents of working age, especially those with complex needs, who are claiming universal credit. Most people of working age who need to make a new claim for income replacement benefits, benefits for children and benefits to help with housing costs will need to claim universal credit. People of working age who have had a change of circumstances may also need to claim universal credit even if not all of their existing benefits have stopped.

Vulnerable residents - Learn how vulnerable people on universal credit can be supported.

The waiting period – Learn how best to manage the five week waiting period for new claimants.

Housing costs – Get information on who receives assistance for their rental liability under universal credit and how to prevent rent arrears.

Myths – Be aware of the facts relating to Universal Credit and not the media myths. We have a responsibility as a Local Authority to take positive steps to prevent scaremongering from causing our residents to lose out on money that they are entitled to.

Dementia Awareness		12:30-14:30
Dementia is the biggest health and social care challenge we now face in the 21st century. One person develops dementia every 3 minutes in the UK. It means the plans they made and the future they thought they had will not be the same. Understanding how people are affected remains poor and a diagnosis often causes people to withdraw from society and become isolated. Join 3 million others taking action to gain a better understanding and help support people living with dementia to still be part of their community without the fear and stigma that goes with the disease. Dementia friends are about turning understanding into action. Come along to a free interactive Dementia Awareness Information Session to learn how dementia affects a person and what you can do to make a difference.

Girl's Work- Why is it important?		14:00-15:30
“When women kick arse, history often forgets to write it down” The effects of low self-esteem on young women have been well chronicled and are there for all to see, for example in the data on educational achievement, the rise in CSE, crime, social exclusion, risk taking behaviours and self-harming. They are clearly manifest too in many areas of health, such as sexual health, mental health and in the relationship between low self-esteem, smoking, drug use and alcohol. Then context in which we are living can make it difficult to be a girl, in a society where women are still paid less than men, two women per week are killed by their partner, and the President of the United States says it's ok to “grab women by the p---y”! It is impossible to raise someone's self-esteem, as this has to come from within. Go Girls and other programmes for young women foster a social and collaborative learning environment, and are facilitated using the tools of youth work that are well placed to deliver this kind of holistic programme. The participants are actively encouraged to shape the sessions, and the topics are not set in stone. The beauty of youth work and not teaching by transmission and encouraging collaboration is starting from self-harm, to the cost of sanitary products and then how we perceive peer affiliation that encourages us to go beyond our means, which becomes a financial self-harm. Self-esteem is constructed at political, cultural and institutional levels as well as at the individual, family and peer ones. In the delivery of Girls programmes, we aim to constantly ensure that the responses we create attend to individuals, but also take on the leviathan that is social and political change. In our approach we endeavour to weave in the micro and the macro. This work can also be fun, inspiring, humbling, and impactful. Find out more at this thought provoking session. Facilitator: Jane Herbert Youth Services Manager

Prevent & Hate Crime09:30-11:00

The term 'hate crime' can be used to describe a range of criminal behaviour where the perpetrator is motivated by hostility or demonstrates hostility towards the victim's disability, race, religion, sexual orientation or transgender identity. This session will cover:

- What is a Hate Crime
- Brief overview as to what Hate Crime looks like in the borough
- How Hate Crime manifests in the online space
- Encouraging reporting of Hate Crime
- How to report Hate Crime and support services available

Prevent aims to reduce the number of people becoming or supporting violent extremists and is part of the UK's counter-terrorism strategy. It also aims to support and protect those people that might be susceptible to radicalisation, ensuring that individuals and communities have the resilience to resist violent extremism.

This training aims to give you:

- an understanding of the Prevent agenda and your role within it
- an understanding of the local and national risk
- the ability to use your existing expertise and professional judgement to recognise potentially vulnerable individuals and know when an intervention may be necessary to support them
- knowledge of when, how and where to refer concerns about vulnerable individuals

Elderly Abuse09:30-16:30

This course has been designed to look at the issues around elderly abuse and the context in which this work is proceeding, especially since the “No Secrets” report in the Year 2000. Using research, the participants will be able to look at prevalence and the implications for practice in the era of strengths-based approaches that have been introduced since the Care Act 2014.

The course will look at family dynamics in a systemic way and look at the strengths and weaknesses in family and other networks appropriate to the individual. This will also look at changing dynamics in relationships and shifting needs and power-based relationships that may impact on users, as well as the use of coercive and controlling behaviours. The course will cover effective risk management paying due attention to service users rights and capacity. The course will look at the age-related health issues and specifics of abuse including financial abuse, especially in the context of issues such as social isolation and loneliness.

The course will look at assessment using the Better Living strengths-based model and case studies will be provided for staff to examine this model of practice.

Learning Outcomes

On completion of this course, learners should be able to:

- Understand the progress made in identifying and working with elders suffering from abuse especially since the “No Secrets” report in 2000
- Identify research into abuse of vulnerable adults and its implications for practice
- Understand the family and community dynamics that may affect older people experiencing abuse
- Understand effective risk management and safety planning with older people in a multi-agency context
- Understand the unique forms of economic abuse that older people can experience
- Identify and respond to adult safeguarding concerns
- Understand age-related health issues and their implications for practice
- Address barriers to engagement, and how to build an age-inclusive service
- Address the complications of assessment and the “right to make unwise decisions”
- Understand interfamilial relationships and changing family dynamics/ power shift when a relative becomes dependent on another and the associated risks
- Understand elderly abuse and cohesive and controlling behaviours
- Assess using a strengths-based approach and the Better Living Model

Universal Credit – It does affect your working aged individuals and families13:00-14:30

This Universal Credit workshop will give you advice on how to support our most vulnerable residents of working age, especially those with complex needs, who are claiming universal credit. Most people of working age who need to make a new claim for income replacement benefits, benefits for children and benefits to help with housing costs will need to claim universal credit. People of working age who have had a change of circumstances may also need to claim universal credit even if not all of their existing benefits have stopped.

Vulnerable residents - Learn how vulnerable people on universal credit can be supported.

The waiting period – Learn how best to manage the five week waiting period for new claimants.

Housing costs – Get information on who receives assistance for their rental liability under universal credit and how to prevent rent arrears.

Myths – Be aware of the facts relating to Universal Credit and not the media myths.

Facilitator: Dionne Gordon | Financial Inclusion & Welfare Benefits Officer
Zoe Winters | Income Officer
